

This is a Rain Garden...

It captures runoff from the library roof and allows it to infiltrate slowly into the soil. Rain gardens help prevent pollution and erosion by keeping stormwater from racing away into nearby streams. The native shrubs and perennials planted here attract birds and butterflies and need minimal care. Find out more at the front desk!

WATER
Water Resources Education Network

This sign is funded by the League of Woman Voters of Pennsylvania Citizen Education Fund through a grant from the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection.